Trapped, ca. 1970

Trapped (1 min.). The narrator, John Wayne, states, "This is what a forest fire looks like through an animal's eyes." Various scenes of forest fires blazing at night follow. The phrase: "Please help prevent forest fires" appears on the screen as John Wayne says it. -- Match (30 sec.). First a flower, then a pine sapling emerge from the ground in a forest and begin to grow larger. Next a match emerges from the ground and ignites. The sounds of birds chirping and a piano playing are in the background. A narrator cautions: "A lot of things can come to life in the forest. Don't let fire be one of them." -- Great Americans (10 sec.). A narrator states, "On this our country's two-hundredth birthday, thanks to those who help make America great." As the narrator says this drawings of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Abraham Lincoln, and finally Smokey Bear appear on the screen. -- Smokey needs our help (10 sec.). A young girl states, "Smokey Bear works very hard in the forest but he needs our help. Only you can prevent forest fires." -- Dramatic poem reading (30 sec.). In a classroom, three young girls recite a poem thanking America and Smokey Bear for the trees. -- Forest fire prevention (1 min.). The camera starts at the base of a pine tree and begins to move slowly up. Excerpts of famous speeches and announcements, such as the Gettysburg address, the radio announcement about the bombing of Pearl Harbor, John F. Kennedy saying "ask not what your country can do for you," etc. are chronologically played as the camera pans upward. A narrator states, "In the time it takes to grow a tree you can grow a country." After reaching the tree's top, the camera drops rapidly down to focus on a match burning in pine needles at the base of the tree. The words: only you can prevent forest fires, appear on the screen. -- Liberty tree (1 min.). Illustrates the roles trees have played in the history of the United States: from the raw materials to make wagons, rifles, canoes, and railroad ties, to famous nicknames like Old Hickory. The narrator cautions the viewer to be careful with fire, "Because a country without its forests is a country without its future." -- Forest fire prevention (1 min.). Identical to the previous one of the same title.
